Sixths.

Exercise 10 consists of two staves of music. The notation includes various time signatures such as 3/4, 2/4, and 3/8. The music features complex rhythmic patterns, including triplets, sixteenth notes, and eighth notes, often grouped with slurs. The key signature changes throughout the piece, including major, minor, and augmented/diminished forms. The notation is dense, with many beamed notes and frequent accidentals.

This image displays a page of musical notation, likely for a guitar or piano, featuring ten systems of staves. Each system consists of a single staff with a treble clef and a key signature of one flat (B-flat). The notation is highly complex, characterized by dense chords and intricate fingerings indicated by numbers 1 through 4. The first system begins with a 4/3 time signature, while the subsequent systems are marked with a 3/4 time signature. The music is written in a style that suggests a contemporary or experimental composition, with frequent use of accidentals (sharps, flats, naturals) and complex rhythmic patterns. The notation includes many beamed notes, suggesting sixteenth or thirty-second notes, and various chordal structures. The page is organized into ten horizontal systems, each containing a single staff. The notation is dense and fills most of the staff space, with some systems ending in a double bar line and a final note. The overall impression is one of a highly technical and complex musical score.

This image displays a page of musical notation, likely for a violin or flute, consisting of ten staves. The notation is written in treble clef and includes various key signatures and complex rhythmic patterns. The music is characterized by frequent slurs and ties, suggesting a continuous melodic line. Fingerings are indicated by numbers 1, 2, and 3 below the notes. The staves are arranged in a single column, and the notation is presented in a clear, black-and-white format.

The first staff begins with a key signature of two flats (B-flat major) and a 2/4 time signature. The second staff changes to one flat (B major). The third staff changes to no sharps or flats (C major). The fourth staff continues in C major. The fifth staff changes to one sharp (F major). The sixth staff changes to two sharps (D major). The seventh staff changes to three sharps (A major). The eighth staff changes to one sharp (F major). The ninth staff changes to two sharps (D major). The tenth staff changes to one sharp (F major). The notation includes various rhythmic values, including eighth and sixteenth notes, and rests. The music is presented in a clear, black-and-white format.
